Research Interests

My research program applies a developmental perspective to the study of the etiology, consequences, and prevention of alcohol use and other risk behaviors across the life-span, with special focus on adolescence and the transition to adulthood. These interests are reflected currently in collaborative research projects using longitudinal and event-level designs: University Life Study, British Cohort Studies, and Monitoring the Future.

Teaching Interests / Courses Taught

Developmental transition to adulthood (10-25 years) (graduate seminar)
Adolescent social development and health (graduate seminar)
Developmental research methods (first-year graduate course)
Applied statistics for human development and family studies (first-year graduate course)
Hierarchical linear modeling for developmental psychology and family studies (adv graduate course)
Transition to adulthood (senior level undergraduate)
Developmental theories and research methods (honors undergraduate)
Adolescent development (junior level undergraduate)
Life-span development and family relations (lower-division undergraduate)
Human development across the life-span (lower-division; undergraduate honors)

Grants

Principal Investigator, Federal Grants
