Education

Ph.D. Vanderbilt University, 2002 (Quantitative Methods, Psychology)
(Major Advisor: David Cordray), Nashville, TN

B.A University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill, 1989 (Liberal Arts)
Chapel Hill, NC

Areas of Interest

Prevention research in the behavioral sciences, Economic evaluation of evidence-based programs, Statistical analysis/evaluation methods, Health services research, Social-emotional development in children, Research-to-policy initiatives

Research and Teaching Experience

2024-Present Research Professor, College of Health and Human Development,
Senior Research Associate, Edna Bennett Pierce Prevention Research Center,
Penn State University

2019-2024 Associate Research Professor, College of Health and Human Development,
Senior Research Associate, Edna Bennett Pierce Prevention Research Center,
Penn State University

2019-Present Director, Social Investment Optimizer, Evidence to Impact Collaborative, Penn
State University

2017-Present Associate Training Director/Co-Lead Executive Committee, Prevention and Methodology Training Grant (PAMT), College of Health and Human Development, Penn State University

2016-Present Statistics Instructor, Department of Human Development and Family Studies,
College of Health and Human Development, Penn State University

2019 Statistics Instructor and Program Director, Training Interdisciplinary Educational Scientists (TIES) Methodology Seminar (spring semester; TIES institute, May 6)

2018-2019 Penn State Health Care Plan Monitoring Sub-Committee member, Department of Health Policy & Administration, Penn State University

2015-Present	Associate Director, Prevention Economics Planning and Research Program, College of Health and Human Development, Penn State University
2005-2015	Statistics Instructor, Department of Health Policy & Administration, College of Health and Human Development, Penn State University
2012-2015	Statistics Workshop (2-day seminar for incoming Ph.D. students), Department of Health Policy & Administration, Penn State University
2010-Present	Graduate School faculty, Department of Human Development and Family Studies, Penn State University
2008-2012	Research Associate, Prevention Research Center for the Promotion of Human Development, Penn State University
2006-2007	Statistics Seminar (for incoming Ph.D. students), Department of Health Policy & Administration, Penn State University
2006-2008	Research Associate, The Methodology Center, Penn State University
2002-2006	Research Associate, Department of Health, Policy & Administration, Penn State University
1999-2006	Project director, Benefit-cost study for Fast Track Project Supervised the key components of the economic evaluation of this intervention targeted toward children at risk for long-term emotional/behavioral problems and their families. Primary tasks included over-seeing the data collection effort, modifying data collection measures, and conducting data analysis.
2001-Present	Consultant for statistical analysis and/or economic evaluation endeavors (organizations have included Community Strategies, Oregon Research Institute, University of Delaware, New York University and Rhode Island Kids Count)
2002	Dissertation, Vanderbilt University—Defended, July 2002 Jones, D.E. Assessing growth models in field research: Methodological considerations for observing changing outcomes in the presence of changing settings.
2000	Major Area Paper, Vanderbilt University—Defended, April 2000 Jones, D.E. Analyzing relative effects in quasi-experimental intervention studies: Modeling multiple sources of non-equivalence.
1998-1999	Data analyst, Frank Porter Graham Child Development Center
1996-2003	Data analyst, Fast Track Project
1993-1995	Statistics teaching assistant, Department of Psychology and Human Development, Vanderbilt University

1995 Master's Thesis, Vanderbilt University (advisor: Mark Appelbaum)
Jones, D.E. (1995). A comparison of the performance of the randomization test to the t-test when parametric assumptions are violated.
